

A contemporary miniature floral design

Modern, airy and filled with the expensive flowers floral design that will surprise and satisfy your clients. You can make bigger construction, add tropical flowers and create the truly 'wow' factor at any place, workspace or your shop. This miniature floral design is the great project for a floral workshop or class for the beginners to learn a movement.

Suggested materials:

A bamboo pole 1-1.5" diameter
Vine 'Hardenbergia violacea'
Orchids /Mini Phalaenopsis
Anemones or Spray roses
Lily Grass/ Beargrass
Alocasia leaves / plant
Calathea leaves/ plant
Hot glue, wood glue

Masking tape
Wood sticks
Plastic tubes
Rafia
Tools
Piece of wood 12" long

Process:

Cut the bamboo pole into different length segments with the 45-degree angle on one side (I used the masking tape to prevent chipping of the bamboo).

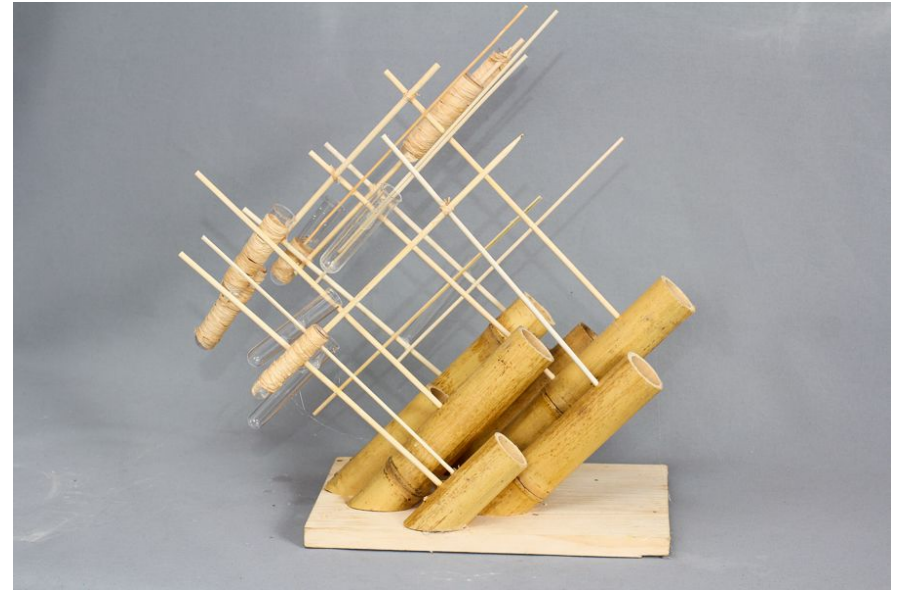

Then with hot glue attach the cut bamboo onto the wood piece.

Make some holes with a drill making the 90-degree angle to the bamboo for the wood sticks, and with adding a little bit of wood glue insert the sticks. Create another level of the wood stick parallel to the bamboo. From the side, it will look like a grid.

Some water tubes wrapped with raffia then glued to the thin wood sticks repeating the upward movement. Fill the water tubes with water.

Next, add grass and vines for the upward movement and foliage. After that, add orchids and anemones, small and large flowers. Please remember to create groups of flowers in the 8-5-3 rule, that simple rule will help provide more impact, especially if you make the large construction.

Remind your clients to check the water level in tubes every day.
